Stuff we ♥ this month

Daydream about this stuff while washing the sand out of your bathing suit.

1 With a Miles Davis score, gorgeous old cars and a hot teen couple, Ascenseur Pour L'Échafaud, starring the insanely chic Jeanne Moreau, is a film up there with Godard's Breathless. —Paul 2 In tiny Paia town, on the road to Hana in Maui, is Anthony's Coffee (anthonyiscoffee.com). I like to go there and pretend I'm a local. —Brekke 3 This tray gives me visions of pita and hummus at fabulous parties I want to throw ($78, lekkerhome.com). —Tina 4 Van Gogh and Cézanne went to 119-year-old Sennelier for their pigments. I fill these cool-looking paint tubes with shampoo when I travel (magasinsennelier.com). —Brandon 5 NYC burlesque troupe Starshine makes me want to spruce up my own bedroom striptease. —Ashley, proud stage manager 6 All my life I've wanted a glamorous travel wallet. At age 8, I put tickets in a dime-store makeup bag and called it a clutch. Thank you, Aspinal of London, for an upgrade I can afford ($125, aspinaloflondon.com). —Katy 7 Reading Found II is almost as fun as watching your crazy neighbor with binoculars ($11, amazon.com). —Kate 8 The Spring Flower scent of this Creed deodorant was custom-made for Audrey Hepburn. Odor protection and instant class ($49, Neiman Marcus stores). —Celia 9 Each one of my bags is customized with these little peeps ($10, kamibashi.com). —Marie 10 Katamari Damacy is a good "I'm not that into video games" game. I mostly play it for the fun show-tunes-on-meth music ($20, amazon.com). —Ashley 11 Pinning band logos to your jacket is cool, but book junkies will love Jennifer Cacicio's author pins ($3, pianoandscene.com). —Liza 12 Prada notebooks: Smart and stylin' (888-977-1900). —Kusum 13 These Oilily soaps come in adorable tins that make handy receptacles ($8, oilily-world.com). —Celia
