New Kamibashi String Dolls for Christmas!

by JENNIFER CHAIT on NOVEMBER 26, 2011

Kamibashi is just about the cutest shop ever, and eco-friendly to boot. I especially love their String Doll Gang.

The String Doll Gang is a band of awesome fun character keyrings, handmade with Fair Trade practices in Thailand. Each String Doll has his or her own special flavor and a power that is positive and helpful, making them a great gift for every member of your family. Every String Doll comes with a double-sided fabric tag explaining their character and a lobster claw keyring. These are safe for kids over eight (some have tiny parts).

Bonus, each sweet little doll is just $10 a pop, so these are perfect as eco-friendly stocking stuffers, but cool enough for a stand-alone gift too. Also, the company service is great. They got me my dolls super speed fast and actually sent me an email thanks you last year after I order some of these for the holidays.

AstroNeil, Ollie & E-Moe String Dolls

Last year for the holidays I gave my son Cedar the adorable AstroNeil. I got my boyfriend (the skateboarder) Ollie and my boyfriend's daughter, a music fan, E-Moe. This year, if you're looking for a sweet, small gift, you have to check out their new adorable Gingerbread Man String Doll!

Gingerbread Man String Doll

This new little doll is super cute for Christmas, but if you're not totally in love with Gingerbread Man, there are other winter holiday String Dolls to choose from too - see the gallery below.

- Christmas DreamTeam - Two String Dolls - Santy & Rudy for a special low price! You can also buy them separately.
- Snowy
- Shredder Girl & Boy
- Elfy
- Snowflake
- Gigi the Panda - not holiday minded, but just in case your kids are panda obsessed.

With dozens of choices, there really is a String Doll out there to suit every personality. Which means you can shop here for all your office mates, extended family and so fourth, for just $10 each and be done with your shopping early! That's a good gift for you and your friends.

+ String Doll Gang $10 each
