The String Doll Gang®

original The String Doll Gang®

The String Doll Gang features a line of over 100 unique and endearing characters each with its own whimsical name and positive power. Produced in Thailand by artisans, each doll is created by one piece of string. The String Doll Gang line appeals to older kids as well as teens and adults and is a fun gift because of the personalization and social expression of each doll.

Over the past years, Kamibashi has sold over 500,000 dolls in the U.S. in independent specialty boutiques and museum stores. In addition, each year there are a series of Kamibashi Cares dolls which tie into specific charities to help raise money for certain causes.

The Jim Henson Company through its HIP division is working to extend the brand into other products and categories. In addition, a stop motion animated series is also in development.

Current initiatives under way include the production of a series of Talking String Doll APPs with the first APP set for later this year as well as "make your own string doll" book.

Henson is looking to expand the brand into a line of vinyl dolls, stationery, apparel, accessories, gifts and room decor.
